UKHIMATH

Ukhimath, located at 1,311 meters in Uttarakhand's Rudraprayag district, serves as the winter seat of Lord Kedarnath. The town is famous for the ancient Omkareshwar Temple, where idols from Kedarnath and Madhyamaheshwar are worshiped for six months.

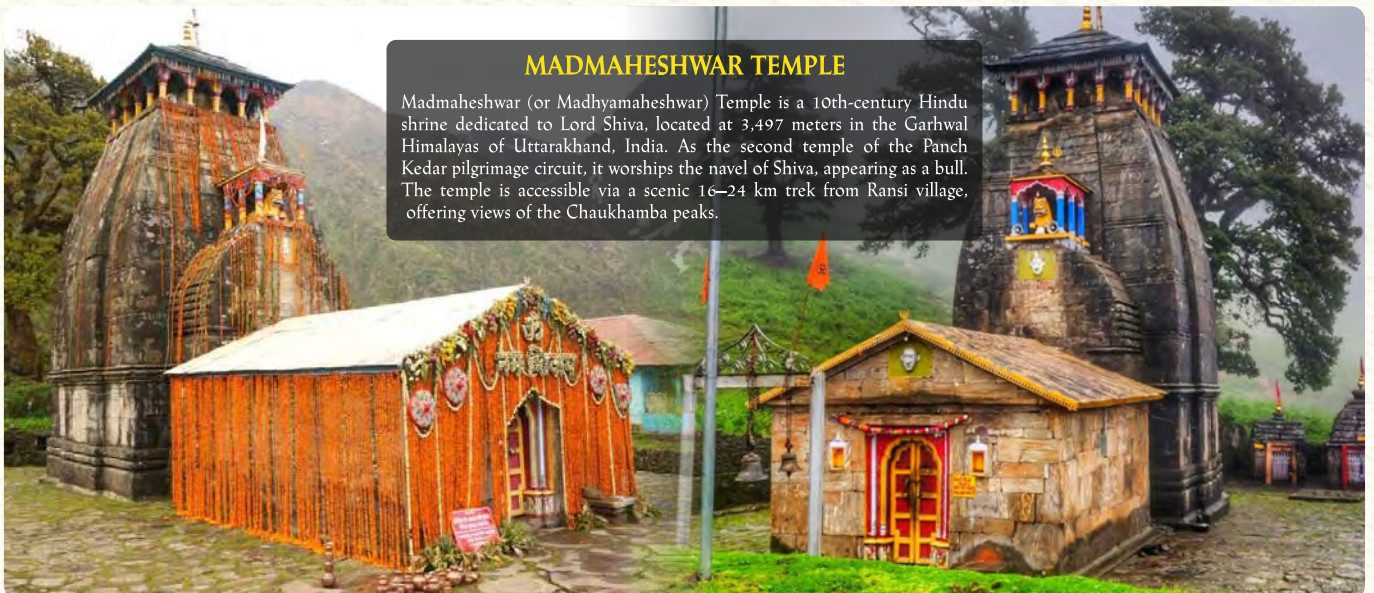

CHOPTA (MINI SWITZERLAND)

Popularly referred to as the 'mini Switzerland' of Uttarakhand, Chopta (at an approximate altitude of 2,608 m) is a slice of paradise tucked away in the Garhwal Himalayas. Surrounded by bugyals or velvety meadows and pristine snow-capped peaks, Chopta is an all-year holiday destination: pleasant in summer, rain-fresh in monsoon and a snow-clad fairyland in winter.

DEORIA TAL

Deoria Tal (also Devaria or Deoriya) is a lake about 3 km (1.9 mi) from the villages of Mastura and Sari on the Ukhimath-Chopta road in the state of Uttarakhand in India. Situated at an altitude of 2,438 metres (7,999 ft) in the Garhwal Himalayas, it has heavily wooded, lush green surroundings with snow-covered mountains (Chaukhamba being one of them) in the backdrop.

MADMAHESHWAR TEMPLE

Madmaheshwar (or Madhyamaheshwar) Temple is a 10th-century Hindu shrine dedicated to Lord Shiva, located at 3,497 meters in the Garhwal Himalayas of Uttarakhand, India. As the second temple of the Panch Kedar pilgrimage circuit, it worships the navel of Shiva, appearing as a bull. The temple is accessible via a scenic 16–24 km trek from Ransi village, offering views of the Chaukhamba peaks.
